

My first favorite book

Ann Likes Red by Dorothy Z. Seymour was the first book I remember my mom reading to me. I wouldn't go to sleep without a bedtime story.

My mom loved to shop, and I didn't realize it until this year – this was the perfect book for both of us. I learned my colors and how to spell Department Store before going to kindergarten at St. Anthony's, and my mom got to initiate me into the world of shopping as the plot of the story is for Ann to find the perfect outfit in the perfect color.

What was the first book you remember reading?